

Zem and the Dragon

There was a dragon warrior called Zem he was fearless and strong one day he thought it would be cool to adventure around the world, so he leapt onto his horse and off he went.

It was so peaceful and quiet the sun looked to be shining bright in the distance but just when he thought things was going good.

Out jumped a big ginormous dragon, the dragon was fearless just like the warrior! zem whipped out his sword and shield ready to battle the dragon.

the dragon crept ever so slowly towards zem, zem knew the dragon was about to shoot out fire and just as he thought that he did the dragon shot out fire furiously!

Zem managed to jump out the way and hid behind a rock the dragon was confused, then zem surprised the dragon by jumping onto his back " i bet you wasn't expecting that!" said zem

The dragon was very mad he started spinning around trying to get him off his back eventually Zem fell off the dragon but grabbed hold of his tail and climbed back up "nobody can defeat me not even a dragon" Zem said laughing.

He bashed the dragon with his shield the spikes stuck into the dragons skin but that wasn't enough to defeat the big dragon, so Zem sliced the dragon with his sword the dragon gave out a mighty ROAR before flopping on the floor.

Zem could hear a noise behind him and quickly turned around sitting there was a baby dragon "Oh no" sighed Zem.

The baby dragon stared into zems eyes all tearful and frightened then walked slowly towards his mum and laid beside her Zem started to feel guilty for the poor little dragon "I must fix this" he said softly to himself.

He picked up the baby dragon and placed him onto his horse and just as they was about to set off out rolled two baby dragons playing " Really more!" said Zem rolling his eyes.

Zem placed the other two dragons onto his horse and set off back on his journey "well this isn't how I planned it" Zem said laughing.